

Business Intelligence and Information Management

You have the intuition; let us help you find the facts!

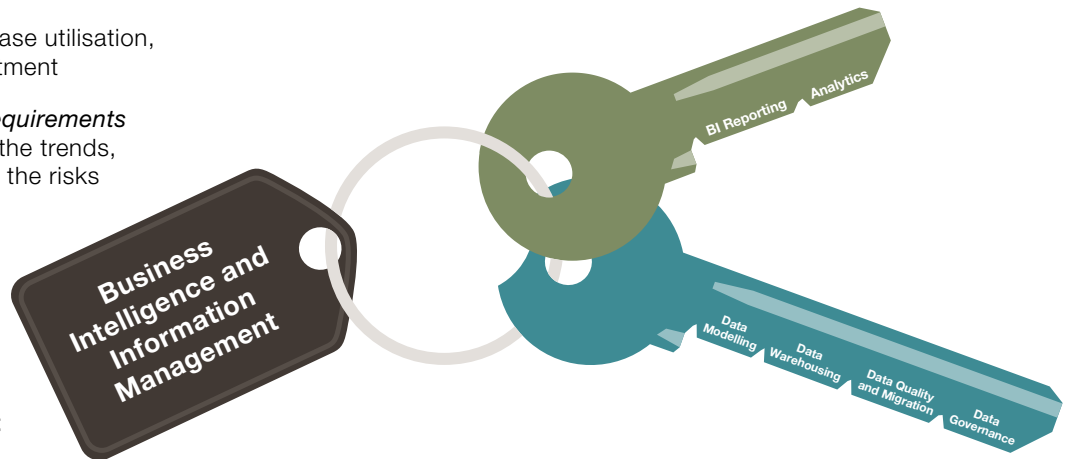

Every day managers make business decisions based on the data available or even pure intuition. The most effective decisions are those which are based on solid facts but in today's fast paced distributed business world it takes expertise to timely collate, present and develop strategies to analyse the information.

At Ajilon, unlocking – at the right time – the real issues, themes and intelligence within your organisation is what we do best. We'll enable you to make sound business decisions covering financial, strategic direction, daily operations, your customer base, and regulatory and risk compliance, among many others. We can bring out the real information that the data doesn't show in a way that is easily understood and readily applied to your business activities.

Make highly informed decisions; increase your competitive advantage and tap into new business opportunities

- Maximise effectiveness
Find additional capacity, increase utilisation, grow the return on your investment
- Exceed rigorous regulatory requirements
See through the data to spot the trends, manage by exception, control the risks rather than be led by it
- Manage costs down
Allow the data within your organisation to predict and highlight improvements before they occur.

Discover the how to get the right information at the right time so that you can make the right decision the first time.

With a focus on addressing the business problem and the supporting enablers, our expertise delivers you real answers, sooner.

How will our experienced analysts make a difference to your business?

- Qualitative and quantitative analytics to help you solve business problems and predict behaviour; bring key information to the forefront and leverage your existing assets.
Benefit: Get critical insight into your business environment, operations and customers' needs.
- Business intelligence reporting to help you discover opportunities and drive organisational efficiencies.
Benefit: We deliver transparency so you can align your operations to business strategies.
- Data modelling to help you better understand the full picture for making sound decisions.
Benefit: Extract the most out of your existing assets and systems.
- Data warehousing to help you consolidate and organise information to suit your business. Don't tie yourself to one presentation of the data, have it available in a form that allows for one off and future reporting needs!
Benefit: We show you how relevant and useful information can support your business objectives.
- Data quality and migration expertise provides you with reliable, cleansed data; custom designed to fit your current or upgraded systems.
Benefit: Make decisions with confidence; no more doubts about integrity or compatibility.
- Data governance enables your business to maintain and manage critical data for the future; we work with you to develop and maintain a single 'source of truth'.
Benefit: Provide your stakeholders with what they need; remove the frustrations of incomplete information.

We help you maximise the business value of information locked within your systems.
